

Apply for next year's "Scaling Up Big Ideas" Category!

Big Ideas@Berkeley "Scaling Up" Category

Congratulations on your Big Ideas@Berkeley win! You are now eligible to participate in the "Scaling Up Big Ideas" category, open to previous Big Ideas or Bears Breaking Boundaries winners who are looking to take their projects to the next level!

What is "Scaling Up Big Ideas"?

"Scaling Up Big Ideas" prizes are available for student-led initiatives that have previously won a Big Ideas contest, who have since generated excellent results and are in need of additional support to make even greater progress. Since 2006, over 300 student teams have received recognition for their "Big Idea." After implementing their projects and gathering feedback on their project ideas, winning teams often are ready to scale their projects to a larger audience, expand it to additional communities, add new features or components, or develop solutions to related problems.

We highly encourage our 2014-2015 Big Ideas winners to apply for the Scaling Up category in future contests! Successful teams need to demonstrate that they have generated excellent results in implementing or piloting their original winning project idea, and describe their plans to "scale up" their project.

Eligibility

This category is open to all matriculated undergraduate and graduate students who previously won a Big Ideas or Bears Breaking Boundaries award but have not previously won a "Scaling Up" award. Scaling Up category requirements follow the same official rules as other Big Ideas categories, and also require both a pre-proposal and full proposal.
